CASE STUDY: Shelburne Farms is a membership-supported, non-profit environmental education center whose mission is to cultivate a conservation ethic for a sustainable future. To pursue this mission, they practice rural land uses that are environmentally, economically and culturally sustainable on a 1,400-acre working farm and National Historic Landmark on the shores of Lake Champlain in Shelburne, Vermont.

When doing renovations on staff housing at the historic farm they chose Vermont Natural Coatings PolyWhey® Floor Finish for its safety, beauty and ease of use.

PolyWhey was a great fit for our farm house renovation. Not only does it look great, but it met our mission and desire to use environmentally sustainable practices. The fact that it is derived from whey, a by-product of cheese making, makes the product an even better connection to our own award-winning farmhouse cheddar."
